Miss Longmire Makes Debut At Reception

Party at Algonquin Golf Club in Eighteenth Century Setting — Several Hundred Guests Present.

MISS MARY EDITH LONGMIRE was presented to society by her parents Friday night in a setting suggesting stately drawing rooms of two centuries ago, created in Algonquin Golf Club. There were two distinct parties. A two-hour reception early in the evening at which the debutante met her family's friends, was followed by a ball for several hundred of the younger set.

Not only decorations but some of the music was eighteenth century in theme, and six small blackamoors, hits of the evening, were turned out in fine pastel moire and satin costumes, plumed metallic turbans and gold turned-up shoes after the manner of those trained to attend ladies of the early French courts. One stood at the front door to direct the guests; another awaited the pleasure of the receiving line, and the others scampered about with trays of cigarettes which they offered with bows and clicking heels.

Miss Longmire, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson Longmire, whose home is in Webster Groves, and her older sister, Miss Helen, received before long, full gold cloth drapery concealing broad lounge windows. Potted trees, heavy with gilded fruit, stood at either side, and a thick rope of laurel was festooned on the satin overhead.

The long room, with pale rose walls and green carpet, was paneled in laurel and lighted by white candles secured to gold shields centering each panel. Laurel garlands outlined the doorways and windows. Heavy brass candelabra stood at either side of a gold framed period mirror hung above the mantel ledge, and clipped fruit trees flanked pastel toned chrysanthemums massed before the fireplace. "In an Eighteenth Century Drawing Room" adapted from a Mozart sonata, recurred in stringed orchestra music played in the inclosed porch.

Laurel-bordered panels were repeated in the dining room decorations and in the grill where an elaborate buffet table was spread. Small supper tables in both rooms and at one end of the long glassed-in porch were centered with lighted candles set in beds of gold and wine colored chrysanthemums, and tables and mantels throughout the clubhouse were decorated with flowers sent to the guest of honor.

At 11 o'clock the debutantes, second-year girls and their escorts began to arrive, many of them from previous parties. By midnight the rooms were filled with younger guests. Drawing-room melodies changed tempo and became dance music played by Carl Rossow's orchestra, and dancers crowded the porch.

Supper, buffet style, was served all evening from the L-shaped table around two sides of the grill. At the corner stood a tall gold vase filled with yellow and red blossoms harmonizing in color with quantities of fruit spilling from large cornucopias on each wing. White candles in tall brass holders completed the decorative effect.

For her debut party, Miss Longmore wore the gown in which she served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball in October. To the rose and gold lame bodice was attached an extremely full ivory tulle skirt trimmed with two broad lame bands. In her arms the debutante carried pink camellias combined with stephanotis.

Mrs. Longmire's gown was peach and white brocade with fastenings of brilliants, with which she wore a shoulder corsage of purple-throated white orchids. Miss Helen Longmire was in lame and tulle, the metallic bodice emphasizing rose and copper tones, and the pale gray skirt revealing under layers of pink and green. A tulle scarf floated from a pearl clasp at her throat, and over pink gloves she wore a wrist corsage of roses.

Noel Thompson Is Honored at Dinner Dance

Cocktail Party and Breakfast Among Social Affairs Arranged for Debutantes Over Week End.

OF the debutante parties scheduled for yesterday and today, the largest was the dinner dance given last night at the St. Louis Country Club for Miss Amanda Noel Thompson by her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Seward Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Seward and Miss Thompson received their guests in the lounge. Dinner for the debutantes and their escorts, 70 guests, was served in the alcove dining room. Bouquets of white flowers—snapdragon, steevia and chrysanthemums—and silver candelabra holding white tapers were arranged the length of the table, which was covered with a green cloth.

A table, similarly decorated, was placed on the glassed-in porch for the host and hostess and a family group, about 27 in all. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Thompson, parents of the guest of honor and the hostess and Dr. and Mrs. Everett E. Hammonds of Birmingham, Mich. Mrs. Hammonds, the former Miss Elizabeth Annette Ustick, is a granddaughter of Mrs. Oscar L. Biebinger, 5251 Westminster place. Dr. and Mrs. Hammonds are spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Seward at their home, 5257 Westminster place. Later in the evening additional friends of Mr. and Mrs. Seward arrived for dancing.

Early last evening, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Holmes, 709 South Skinker boulevard, gave a cocktail party for four debutantes, Miss Ann Kelley, Miss Audrey Elise Stifel, Miss Irene Randolph and Miss Dorothy Jane Mahaffey. About 80 guests called between 6 and 8 o'clock. In addition to the debutantes and their escorts the parents of the guests of honor were present: Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold G. Stifel, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Randolph and Birch O. Mahaffey.

Miss Nancy McBlair Payne, daughter of Mrs. James Keith Payne, will be guest of honor at a breakfast at 12:30 o'clock today, to be given by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lee B. Hildebrand, at their home, 28 Vandeventer place.

Guests will include Miss Noel Thompson, Miss Dorothy Jane Mahaffey, Miss Ann Kelley, Miss Rosalie McRee, Miss Jane Scofield Lord, Miss Rebecca Carter MacMillan, Miss Irene Randolph, Miss Dorothy Louise Kamp, Miss Mary Armistead, William H. Charles, Thomas G. Rutledge, Peter J. and Edward L. Bakewell Jr., Morris Messick, Fred M. Robinson Jr., David P. and Franklin Ferriss II and Warfield Curry.

Yellow and bronze colored chrysanthemums will decorate the home of Judge and Mrs. William Dee Becker, 5374 Delmar boulevard, for their cocktail party this afternoon in honor of Miss Virginia Marie Christy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Le Beau Christy. Sixty guests, debutantes and their escorts, have been invited to call between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock. Judge and Mrs. Becker will entertain the Christys.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coit Day, 5117 Westminster place, and their daughter, Mrs. Mary Day Terry, will give a dinner at the St. Louis Country Club tonight in honor of Miss Thompson. Thirty guests, debutantes and their escorts will be seated at Miss Thompson's table. Mr. and Mrs. Day will entertain the debutante's parents at a small table.

Betty Heckmann To Be Wed Dec. 21

THE engagement of Miss Betty Louise Heckmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Heckmann, and William Frederick Reck Jr., formerly of Englewood, N. J., was announced late yesterday at a cocktail party at the Heckmann home on Larimore road, St. Louis County.

About 50 friends of the bride-elect and her fiance, invited from 5 to 7 o'clock, were given white chrysanthemums with announcement cards attached. Red roses and narcissus decorated the hors d'oeuvres table, which was lighted by red candles. Miss Ahden Knight and Mrs. Willard E. Stamm served.

The wedding, to which a limited number of guests will be invited, is to take place Saturday morning, Dec. 21, at the home of the bride's parents. The bride will be unattended, but her brother, William L. Heckmann Jr., is to be best man. An informal

Debutante Parties Given For Daughters of Former St. Louisans in New York

By FRANCES CONANT RICHARDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.

THE ballroom of the Colony Club was filled with red, white and yellow flowers last Saturday afternoon when Miss Nancy Miller made her debut at a tea dance given by her grandmother, Mrs. Charles E. Miller. The debutante is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danforth Miller who live in Hewlett, L. I. Mrs. Miller is the one-time Ann Talbott Day of St. Louis and is related to the Filleys through her mother who was a first cousin of the late Mrs. Dwight Filley.

The innumerable baskets of flowers sent to the debutante were placed around the ballroom with special emphasis at one end of the room where they formed a background for the receiving line. Dark haired Miss Miller wore a light blue velvet dress trimmed with point de Venice lace and a corsage of pink camellias. She stood in the receiving line with her mother to greet the 350 young people and friends of the family who came in between 4 and 7 o'clock. Mrs. Miller wore a long dusty pink crepe gown and a corsage of orchids.

As the guests went through the line they also met Miss Barbara Wear and Miss Jessie Miller, who, though not debutantes as yet, stood in line with their debutante cousin. Miss Wear, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Wear, was at Westover School in Connecticut with Miss Nancy Miller, and is now at the Finch Junior College here in New York. Miss Jessie Danforth Miller, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Miller Jr., is a student at Smith.

Last night was another big night on Nancy Miller's debutante calendar. It was the night of the first of this year's two Junior Assemblies which are always given in the ballroom at the Ritz. Invitations to the Junior Assembly are scarce, in view of the fact that well over 400 young women make New York debuts and only about 100 are ever asked to this super special dance.

Other 1940 debutantes with St. Louis backgrounds who waltzed around the gold and white ballroom last night were Miss Susan Cooper, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry S. Fenimore Cooper; Miss Joan Martin, daughter of Mrs. Deacon Martin; Elise Farley, whose grandmother, Mrs. John Inderrieden of Chicago, is the one-time Marie Papin, and Miss Grace V. Ewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ewing.

The debutantes themselves do not belong to the junior assembly but are presented by their mothers or grandmothers who receive the invitations. The junior assembly beats all other dances around New York when it comes to old-time formality, with an obligatory ruling that mothers and debutantes wear elbow length gloves. Fathers and beaux arrive kid-gloved, too.

As the party gets under way the mothers take their daughters through the receiving line to meet the members of the committee, prominent New Yorkers, including Mrs. Junius Morgan and Mrs. Shepard Krech, whose son, Shepard Krech Jr., married Nora Potter last summer. An ample stag line is assured by each girl being asked to bring two young men. The assembly starts about 11 o'clock when the young people arrive from dinner parties. Last night Mr. and Mrs. Miller gave a pre-assembly dinner for Miss Nancy in the Persian room, where she entertained eight other debutantes and their escorts, making 27 in all.

Move to New Apartment.

MOVING into a new apartment at 280 Park avenue, a quick trip to Florida and modelling at Hattie Carnegie's Palm Beach showing have kept Mrs. Steve Hannagan on the go for the past two weeks. Mrs. Hannagan, who is better known to St. Louis as Snippy Rumpf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rumpf of Kirkwood, is now in the throes of decorating her new apartment along such colorful lines as a red, white and blue bedroom.

During the day Mrs. Hannagan is a quick-change artist, modelling an average of 100 dresses a day for gilt-edged customers. When it came to the problem of a hairdo, with all this getting in and out of dresses, Mrs. Hannagan solved it by a swirled pompadour. Necessity was the mother of invention and she claims to be the first to repopularize the pompadours that are now found on all the best heads in the country.

To try and locate her at her job as either Mrs. Hannagan or Snippy Rumpf is well nigh impossible as she is known to the trade and photographers as Suzi Brewster. This name she picked from her young daughter, who is Suzi Brewster Burns.

During lunch hours Mrs. Hannagan is seen at all the smart restaurants, lunching one day just across from Gertrude Lawrence at Longchamps or perhaps at her regular table at 21 with Anita Colby and Wendy Iglehart. This luncheon at 21 has become more or less of a regular Monday engagement when all three of these beauties try to outdo each other with startling hats they whip up themselves. Mrs. Hannagan won the honors last Monday with a bit of black wool twisted into a turban and three dangling pink wool tassels.

She and her husband leave New York the Friday before Christmas. He will visit his mother in Grand Rapids and she will go to St. Louis to be with her child and parents until Dec. 26, when the Hannagans will fly to Florida again.

St. Louisans in the East.

THE three Alexander brothers, who at one time were reporters in St. Louis, all moved East within the last 10 years and are now living in and around New York. Roy Alexander, now an associate editor of Time, lives in Port Washington, L. I., with his wife and five children. Father Calvert Alexander lives in town and edits a magazine, Jesuit Missions, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alexander live on Eighth street in a penthouse that was once a thriving speakeasy. They didn't realize the past history of their apartment when they first saw the tremendous living room, alcove bookcases and oak panelled walls. Close inspection, however, revealed cigarette burns on the floor, secret panels in the bookshelves and whole liquor closets hidden behind the revolving bookcases.

The Alexanders' living room opens onto flagstone terrace on two sides and is filled with blue and rose French furniture to match the Savonnerie type rug. Their bedroom, which is the erstwhile bar, opens onto his yellow study where he turns out feature articles for Life and the Saturday Evening Post on such personalities as Vincent Astor, Dorothy Thompson and Raymond Gram Swing. Since Jack Alexander began freelancing some years ago, "Boss" Hague is the only subject to date who refused to be interviewed.

Mrs. Alexander, who was Anita Mueller former St. Louis newspaper woman, usually goes with her husband on out-of-town assignments. He figures just about a month per article what with doing a bit of research, interviewing the person, talking to his friends then writing it all up in the yellow study lined with original D. R. Fitzpatrick cartoons and pictures of the interviewed such as J. Edgar Hoover, the late Saito, Henry Wallace and James H. R. Cromwell.

Doris Appel to Wed Dr. Touro M. Graber

THE engagement of Miss Doris Appel, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ernst Appel of Hannibal, Mo., and Dr. Touro Mordecai Graber was announced at a family supper recently. Dr. Graber is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Jacob Graber, 14 Litzsinger lane.

Miss Appel, who makes her home with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Littman, 11 Lake Forest, during the school year, is a senior at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, Washington University, where she is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta sorority. She attended school in Germany.

The prospective bridegroom was recently graduated from Washington University School of Dentistry. He is a member of the Missouri Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution through two Revolutionary ancestors. One, Jacob Isaacks, a ship builder of Newport, R. I., outfitted his own ships as privateers. Through his friendship with Thomas Jefferson he loaned Congress four cannon. A letter from Jefferson to Isaacks was discovered in an unused wing of the White House last year and is now preserved in Washington. Dr. Graber is a descendant of the Spanish explorer, Louis de Torres, who accompanied Columbus on his first voyage to America. Miss Appel and Dr. Graber plan to be married after her graduation in June.

And now's the time to enjoy these dainty little golden-ruddy fruit that nature puts up in tidbit "packages."

How easy they are to peel! Even the smallest fingers have no trouble at all "unwrapping" them.

How good they are for young and old! Loaded with vitamins and minerals—especially rich in the precious calcium needed by everyone.

Most of all—how good they taste! Seems like you just can't get enough of that tart-sweet luscious flavor.

Right now, Florida tangerines are at your market. But remember, the season lasts only a few short weeks. So keep plenty on hand—for bedtime and between-meal snacks; for school lunches, for parties—for goodness sake!

Tune in: MARY MARGARET McBRIDE, "America's Beloved Columnist of the Air," 3 P.M.—E.S.T., 2 P.M.—C.S.T.—Monday through Friday, Columbia Network.

SOUTH AMERICA CALLS TO WINTER TRAVELER

Rio Carnival, Shops in Montevideo and Argentine Lakes Vacation Spots.

South America is no longer being dismissed as a kind of "never-never" land from the traveler's calendar. The war in Europe and the awareness of the good neighbors to the south of us, to say nothing of the hundreds of colorful places to go and things to do has turned attention to the southern hemisphere where the seasons are in direct opposition to our own.

South America has been making a bid for tourist trade. According to the American Express, many new hotels are being built at strategic points, and financial journals are discussing the possibility of creating "tourist dollars" which would, to some extent, equalize the great disparity between the exchange values of South American currencies and United States dollars. There is also talk of "travel scholarships" for South American school teachers and college instructors as a means of creating the good will that is so important to American solidarity just now.

North Americans no longer think of South America in vague terms. Travel agencies and steamship companies to the tourist desire to see more of South America, especially at carnival time. This winter Moore-McCormick lines, which operate a regular passenger service to the East Coast, are sending not one, but two ships to Rio for this celebration which is considered unique among world experiences. Always staged the three days before the opening of Lent, it falls this year Feb. 23, 24 and 25. In Rio everyone dresses in masquerade costume for it, streets are specially lighted and decorated at night, dances are held, and the whole city gives itself over to merrymaking.

Most of the festivities are out in the open air, for carnival comes in the midst of the South American summer. Thousands appear both day and night on the streets in costume, dance to the beat of tom toms and parade along the avenues, throwing confetti and squirting icy-cold perfumes at passersby. On the last day the celebration comes to a climax with a great parade of floats and a final night of carefree revelry.

Most Beautiful City.

Rio is undoubtedly the world's most beautiful city, and whoever visits it once longs always to visit it again. The harbor is magnificent, but is only one feature of this beauty. Rising dramatically from the water edge are scores and scores of huge mountains, the city has had to wedge itself into valleys wherever it could. Finally there is the conscious planning of Rio itself, for the fine curving drives along its bays and beaches, its wide central Avenida Rio Branco, and its large parks with statues and fountains have been laid out to enhance rather than detract from the beauty of the natural surroundings.

Sailing south, travelers next visit Montevideo, capital of Uruguay. Montevideo has much charm. Perhaps it is the roses which bloom during its summer; perhaps it is the wide streets, in marked contrast to the narrow ones of many a Latin American city; perhaps it is the gay beach pavilions and umbrellas which are scattered on its many beaches. Travelers are stirred there by the Carreta monument, showing a Uruguayan pioneer setting out across the plains with his oxen and his low two-wheeled ox cart, just as North Americans set out in covered-wagon days.

Perhaps the most interesting sight in Buenos Aires is its famous Calle Florida, a street of fine shops which is closed to traffic during the afternoon, so that everyone may stroll down its center. "Chic" is the only word that adequately describes the windows along this thoroughfare.

Among the sights of Buenos Aires are the Palermo Gardens, the Obelisk, the team of San Martin, liberator of Argentina, the Congress and its plaza, and the subways, so clean and sparkling that they seem to have been opened only yesterday. For a panoramic view of the city and the River Plate, travelers like to lunch in the Comega Club, high above the streets.

Argentina has two "musts" for those staying more than a few days. The first of these is Nahuel Huapi (pronounced nah-well wah-pee) National Park, also known as the Argentine Lake District. For a good visit to it one should allow at least a week. On the border of the Andes, Nahuel Huapi is often compared to Switzerland, and its mountains, glaciers, lakes, forests and even many of its mountain homes justify the comparison.

Some travelers spend their stay at hotels in the little town of Bariloche, but a better plan is to visit the outlying chalet-hotels, where home-raised and home-cooked food is served and where horses and cars are available for excursions. One of the best known of these is the "El Tronador," near the mountain of the same name.

REPUBLIC OF GUATEMALA OUTSTANDING GOVERNMENT

With a historical background that is a record of the determination of a people to be free and independent, the Republic of Guatemala today has one of the outstanding governments in Latin America.

The exports are chiefly bananas and coffee, both of which are known around the world for their standard of excellence. Long one of the chief industries of the country, the business of coffee raising now is receiving the personal interest of the Government. This means that the producers enjoy greater benefits than ever before including an extensive and difinified campaign calculated to make known the unique flavor and quality of Guatemala coffee the world over.

One of the attractions in Guatemala City today is the popular "Coffee Room" where cups of the delicious beverage are served piping hot to visitors from the States, together with the diplomatic corps.

Passengers visiting Guatemala from the Atlantic seaboard disembark at Puerto Barrios. Here they entrain for a spectacular 200-mile sceni ctrip to mile-high Guatemala City. No better way exists to see the varied attractions of the republic than this rail trip. The observation car rolls through the green and fertile lowlands where the countless thousands of banana plants set out in orderly arrangement along the placid Montagua River. The train passes close to the ancient city of Quirigua where the Mayan Indians lived and built their indestructible monuments 20 centuries ago. Here, too, lie the third century monuments of the extinct Maya civilization — huge shafts of stone weighing 200 tons, standing knee deep in the underbrush, encompassing temples, massive stone turtles and frogs weighing 20 to 50 tons, and all intricately carved with beautifully proportioned hieroglyphics which defy translation.

So through the desert country with its cactus and chapperel and on into the mountains. In no time the train carries one through the passes and up over the great divide and into the plateau where nestles Guatemala City.

Guatemala City, the capital, is 5000 feet above sea level and has one of the most delightful climates in the world. This is the starting point for the popular 260-mile automobile trip through the highlands, which is made in unhurried stages by rail and automobile. The nights are spent at inns, which are delightfully comfortable and which share the charm of this primitive country.

Here and there the work of the archeologists is pointed out—a monument or part of a temple, an earth-and-time-stained piece of sculpture, all relics of the Quiche-Mayan civilization which probably was at its height when the Christian Era dawned.

FLORIDA RESORTS HAVE FULL SCHEDULE

Sports, Pageants a Small Part of Entertainment Calendar.

Entertainment of all kinds is being scheduled at all Florida resorts for the winter vacationist. The sixth metropolitan Miami fishing tournament which lasts 91 days will be launched open to all comers.

At 8 a. m. on Jan. 12, some 250 fishing boats, yachts, cruisers and just ordinary rowboats with kickers, with all flags and bunting flying, will cruise out Miami's causeway channel in parade formation to the Gulf Stream. There they will spread, "let down their hair," and the greatest piscatorial story since the whale swallowed Jonah will get under way.

Any man, woman or child can enter. You can fish with a 5-cent hand line with a white rag on the hook, a $5 rod and reel or a diamond studded $10,000 outfit. You can fish from a bridge, the shore, a rock, a rowboat or the royal private yacht of the Prince Mohammed El Bey. All that counts is what you catch during the 91 days before it closes April 20. Last year, a total of 161,837 entered. This year the executive committee expects 200,000. In the short space of six years this tournament jumped from 16,700 entrants to over 200,000—which is going some! Last year about 1,000,000 pounds of fish were caught and top prize winner was Mrs. Milton Lusk of Miami Beach, who caught and brought in single-handed a 621-pound blue marlin.

Prizes range from rods and reels to cups, clothing, tackle and even run the entire gamut in sports wear.

You may go out fishing as many times as you wish and enter your catches as often as you please. You pay nothing to enter the competition. You pay nothing if you win. It's almost too good to be true but you can thank any one of some 40 of Miami's leading citizens who head the executive committee who started the idea six years ago and have kept it going ever since.

Fiesta at Miami Beach.

Miami Beach, outlet for the greater Miami area, now includes 5000 acres of man-made island. Resort hotels, cabana clubs, public surf bathing beaches line the nine miles of ocean frontage here while the home sections are bordered by some 30 miles of artificial inland waterways, 12 miles of bay frontage and 14 miles of artificial island frontage.

Holiday celebrations are many during Christmas week. The annual fiesta will be held at Miami Beach and will end with a marine parade. Dec. 30 to Jan. 2 is the Orange Bowl Festival. King Orange Jamboree, which is celebrated with colorful floats and parades, is scheduled for Dec. 31. The Orange Bowl football classic takes place on Jan. 1. Jan. 8 is the opening of the horse races at Hialeah Park. The Southeastern Amateur tennis matches open on Jan. 27.

The winter calendar of sports, social, cultural and general amusement events, just completed by the visitor entertainment committee of St. Petersburg, is twice as extensive as previous programs. Construction of hotels, apartment houses, public projects, commercial buildings, homes and cottages is said to be greater than at any time since the frenzied land boom of the mid-twenties, and may even exceed the dizzy figures of that remarkable era when the totals are all in.

Major sports events on the winter program include the annual North-South Interscholastic football championship game at Kumquat Bowl, Dec. 30; the $5000 72-hole St. Petersburg Open golf tournament, Feb. 26-28; Professional Baseball Players championship golf tournament, Feb. 6-9; twelfth annual St. Petersburg-Havana sailing race, March 1; National Small Bore Rifle tournament, March 12-16; Southeastern Powerboat Regatta; American Kennel Club dog show; National Shuffleboard and Lawn Bowling championship matches; major league baseball training and exhibition games by New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals; three months of greyhound racing; professional league golf matches and exhibitions by top flight tennis stars.

Outstanding social functions are the Army and Navy ball and the Dragons Club ball New Year's eve; Bon Voyage ball on the eve of the St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race, Feb. 28; and Coronation ball, the crowning of the Festival of States Queen, April 2.

Spectacles and pageants include the annual Christmas lighting program of living Christmas trees everywhere throughout the city from Dec. 17 to New Year's and the Festival of States, a week of merry-making and pageantry opening the spring fishing and vacation season, starting March 31.

America's MIAMI

SUNSHINE CITADEL FOR All AMERICA!

ACTUALLY, just about everyone knows that Miami is America's safest refuge from Gloomy Old King Winter's annual blitzkreig—knows about the fun and sun, the matchless scenery and tropic greenery, the gay diversions of surf and turf, the lazy hours of health-restoring relaxation — the complete facilities which appeal to everyone's ideas of a perfect time. What too many don't realize is: last year 2,000,000 visitors proved that Miami has ample accommodations and rates to fit everyone's ideas about costs, too — is no longer for a select few, but is truly all America's.

ADAM'S WINDSPLITTER FIRST STREAMLINED TRAIN

The Middle Western streamline service which began in 1934 with the Pioneer Zephyr of the Burlington railroad was not the first to be inaugurated. The idea for a streamlined train goes back much further than this. While records are not complete it is interesting to recount an experiment made on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in 1900 when a new type train was tested, designed to reduce wind resistance at high speeds.

In 1887 Frederick Upham Adams, Chicago newspaper reporter, interviewed an inventor who claimed he could build a train able to negotiate the distance between New York and Chicago in one hour. Out of this interview Adams came back with the thought that a train of this type would encounter tremendous wind resistance. Being mechanically minded, he sensed the value of reducing this resistance and in due time designed a streamlined train.

The first train of this type was built in the shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in 1900 and tests were run between Baltimore and Washington by the "Adams' Windsplitter." A run of eight and one-half miles was made in six minutes, which was close to the record.

Little came of this train at the time because the locomotive had not been streamlined. Today engineers know that especially the head resistance of the locomotive must be lowered by streamlining.

MODERN AND HISTORIC MEET IN MISSISSIPPI

Modern Coast Resorts, Battle Fields and Ante-Bellum Homes Plentiful.

Mississippi, with its new network of modern highways, its historical spots and modern accommodations has much to offer the winter traveler. Quaint historic cities, parks, Gulf Coast resorts, and recreational opportunities are some of the high spots on the map of the State.

Jackson and Vicksburg, rich in legend and romance, combine the past and the present in its most pleasing aspects. Symbolic of the past tradition and modern growth of Jackson are the historic old Capitol, located at the head of Capitol street, and the beautiful new Capitol, modeled after the nation's center in Washington.

Beneath the cupola of the old Capitol have resounded the voices of Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and Jefferson Davis. In the nearby stately War Memorial Building are the State Museum and the Hall of Fame.

Other points of historic interest are the Governor's Mansion, built in 1842 and located on Capitol street; Battlefield Park, where Grant defeated the Confederate defenders of the city, and the numerous ante-bellum homes in North Jackson. Only a one-and-a-half hours' drive to the south is Camp Shelby, mobilization point for multiplied thousands of soldiers of the United States Army.

A short distance to the west and south are Vicksburg and Natchez, two of the most historic cities in the South. A trip down South is not complete without a visit to the National Military Park at Vicksburg and the beautiful ante-bellum homes of Natchez.

National Monument.

Vicksburg was settled in the early eighteenth century by Spanish explorers who were quick to realize the military advantages of the steep river bluffs. Its real development came, however, with the rapid growth of river traffic in the boom days of the South.

With much of the atmosphere and many of the historic scenes of the river days still alive, Vicksburg has a wealth of interesting scenes.

Scores of ante-bellum homes, many bearing mute evidence of the Federal gunboat attack on the city, are opened to visitors. Some of the mansions built by slave labor are put together entirely by wooden pegs.

A sight not to be missed by the downsouth traveler is the Vicksburg National Military Park, best preserved and most completely marked major battlefield in the world. In all, 1599 memorials, monuments and engraved tablets dot the landscape, serving as convenient guides for the visitor.

Nine major Confederate forts, 10 Union approaches and many miles of breastworks, gun emplacements and rifle pits are seen in the crescent-shaped battlefield which encloses the city proper.

Sportsman's Paradise.

Scarcely three hours drive to the south of Jackson is the sunny Gulf Coast with the famous resort towns, the Seven-Cities-by-the-Sea. This sportsman's paradise offers all season fishing in fresh and salt water, good hunting in adjacent regions, yachting, golfing and tennis.

Yacht clubs hold regattas and scheduled interclub events from April to September. Sports carnivals, tennis tournaments, mackerel rodeos, and a tarpon rodeo add to summer sporting thrills. In winter tourist clubs sponsor varied entertainment, horseshoe, roque, croquet, oyster bakes, sings, concerts, bridge picnics and boat trips. In February are golf tournaments, the annual Foxhunters' meet, and gun and dog field trials. Famous Mardi Gras celebrations, garden pilgrimages.

A 40-mile seawall paralleled by the coast-to-coast highway provides an unforgettable drive where one looks at sparkling waters fringed by stately palms and pines and ancient moss bearded oaks.

Ante-Bellum Homes.

Ante-bellum homes that show distinct French and Spanish influences are plentiful in Biloxi as are th homes of some of the greatest figures in Confederate history. Most of these houses show outside stairways and full length galleries which have come to be associated with the architecture of the deep South.

Perhaps the most important hom from a historical standpoint, is the last home of Jefferson Davis, called Beauvoir. It is the principal historic spot on the Mississippi Coast, and plans have been completed by the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the State of Mississippi to make it a national shrine. The home is the central building of the Mississippi Confederate Soldiers' Home, but only a handful of the Southern warriors remain as the Grey Line is thinning fast.

The site of Fort Louis, on the Beach Boulevard and Porter Avenue, is a reminder when Biloxi was at its great colonial height. Here in 1721, the nine judicial and military districts of the French Province of Louisiana stretching as far north as Canada, made regular reports to the capital governed by Jean Baptiste leMoyne Bienville. Biloxi, itself, is a Sioux Indian name signifying "first people." Originally founded in 1699, it became the mother city for New Orleans and over its boundaries, situated upon a peninsula extending into the Gulf of Mexico, have flown several foreign flags.
